See Section 825-10-15 for guidance on the scope of the Financial Instruments Topic.

General

> Entities

605-35-15-1 The guidance in this Subtopic applies to all contractors.

> Types of Contracts

605-35-15-2 The guidance in this Subtopic applies to:

- a. The performance of contracts for which specifications are provided by the customer for the construction of facilities or the production of goods or the provision of related services. However, it applies to separate contracts to provide services essential to the construction or production of tangible property, such as design, engineering, procurement, and construction management (see paragraph 605-35-15-3 for examples). Contracts covered by this Subtopic are binding agreements between buyers and sellers in which the seller agrees, for compensation, to perform a service to the buyer's specifications. Specifications imposed on the buyer by a third party (for example, a government or regulatory agency or a financial institution) or by conditions in the marketplace are deemed to be buyer's specifications.

· > Contracts Covered

605-35-15-3

Contracts covered by this Subtopic include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. Contracts in the construction industry, such as those of general building, heavy earth moving, dredging, demolition, design-build contractors, and specialty contractors (for example, mechanical, electrical, or paving). In general the type of contract here under consideration is for construction of a specific project. While such contracts are generally carried on at the job site, this Subtopic also would be applicable in appropriate cases to the manufacturing or building of special items on a contract basis in a contractor's own plant.
- b. Contracts to design and build ships and transport vessels.
- c. Contracts to design, develop, manufacture, or modify complex aerospace or electronic equipment to a buyer's specification or to provide services related to the performance of such contracts.
- d. Contracts for construction consulting service, such as under agency contracts or construction management agreements.
- e. Contracts for services performed by architects, engineers, or architectural or engineering design firms.
- f. Arrangements to deliver software or a software system, either alone or together with other products or services, requiring significant production, modification, or customization of software.

605-35-15-4

Contracts covered by this Subtopic may be classified into four broad types based on methods of pricing:

- a. A fixed-price contract is an agreement to perform all acts under the contract for a stated price.
- b. A cost-type \(including cost-plus\) contract is an agreement to perform under a contract for a price determined on the basis of a defined relationship to the costs to be incurred, for example, the costs of all acts required plus a fee, which may be a fixed amount or a fixed percentage of the costs incurred.
- c. A time-and-material contract is an agreement to perform all acts required under the contract for a price based on fixed hourly rates for some measure of the labor hours required (for example, direct labor hours) and the cost of materials.
- d. A unit-price contract is an agreement to perform all acts required under the contract for a specified price for each unit of output.

Each of the various types of contracts may have incentive, penalty, or other provisions that modify their basic pricing terms. The glossary definitions for each of the contract types listed in the preceding paragraph contain greater detail about the pricing features.

· > Types of Contracts Not Covered

605-35-15-6

Contracts not covered by this Subtopic include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. Sales by a manufacturer of goods produced in a standard manufacturing operation, even if produced to buyers' specifications, and sold in the ordinary course of business through the manufacturer's regular marketing channels, if such sales are normally recognized as the sale of goods and if their costs are accounted for in accordance with generally accepted principles of inventory costing.

- b. Sales or supply contracts to provide goods from inventory or from homogeneous continuing production over a period of time.
- c. Contracts included in a program and accounted for under the program method of accounting. For accounting purposes, a program consists of a specified number of units of a basic product expected to be produced over a long period in a continuing production effort under a series of existing and anticipated contracts.
- d. Service contracts of health clubs, correspondence schools, and similar consumer-oriented entities that provide their services to their clients over an extended period.
- e. Magazine subscriptions.
- f. Contracts of not-for-profit entities (NFPs) to provide benefits to their members over a period of time in return for membership dues.
- g. Contracts for which other Topics in the Codification provide special methods of accounting, such as leases.
- h. Cost-plus-fixed-fee government contracts, which are discussed in Topic 912, other types of cost-plus-fee contracts, or contracts such as those for products or services customarily billed as shipped or rendered.
- i. Federal government contracts within the scope of that Topic.
- j. Service transactions between a seller and a purchaser in which, for a mutually agreed price, the seller performs, agrees to perform at a later date, or agrees to maintain readiness to perform an act or acts, including permitting others to use entity resources that do not alone produce a tangible commodity or product as the principal intended result (for example, services, not plans, are usually the principal intended result in a transaction between an architect and the customer of an architect).

General Note: The Master Glossary contains all terms identified as glossary terms throughout the Codification. Clicking on any term in the Master Glossary will display where the term is used. The Master Glossary may contain identical terms with different definitions, some of which may not be appropriate for a particular Subtopic. For any particular Subtopic, users should only use the glossary terms included in the particular Subtopic Glossary Section (Section 20).

General Note on Revenue Recognition—Construction-Type and Production-Type Contracts: Upon the effective date of Accounting Standards Update 2014-09, the title of this Subtopic will change to Revenue Recognition—Provision for Losses on Construction-Type and Production-Type Contracts.

Contract

An agreement between two or more parties that creates enforceable rights and obligations.

Contractor

A person or entity that enters into a contract to construct facilities, produce goods, or render services to the specifications of a buyer either as a general or prime contractor, as a subcontractor to a general contractor, or as a construction manager.

Cost-Plus-Award-Fee Contract

A contract under which the contractor is reimbursed for costs plus a fee consisting of two parts: a fixed amount that does not vary with performance and an award amount based on performance in areas such as quality, timeliness, ingenuity, and cost-effectiveness. The amount of award fee is based on a subjective evaluation of the contractor's performance judged in light of criteria set forth in the contract.

Cost-Plus-Fixed-Fee Contract

A contract under which the contractor is reimbursed for costs plus the provision for a fixed fee.

Cost-Plus-Incentive-Fee Contract (Incentive Based on Cost)

A contract under which the contractor is reimbursed for costs plus a fee which is adjusted by formula in accordance with the relationship which total allowable costs bear to target cost. At the outset there is negotiated a target cost, a target fee, a minimum and maximum fee, and the adjustment formula.

Cost-Plus-Incentive-Fee Contract (Incentive Based on Performance)

A contract under which a contractor is reimbursed for costs plus an incentive to surpass stated performance targets by providing for increases in the fee to the extent that such targets are surpassed and for decreases to the extent that such targets are not met.

Cost-Sharing Contract

A contract under which the contractor is reimbursed only for an agreed portion of costs and under which no provision is made for a fee.

Cost-Type Contracts

Contracts that provide for reimbursement of allowable or otherwise defined costs incurred plus a fee that represents profit. Cost-type contracts usually only require that the contractor use his best efforts to accomplish the scope of the work within some specified time and some stated dollar limitation. See also the following common variations of cost-plus contracts:

- a. Cost-Plus-Award-Fee Contract
- b. Cost-Plus-Fixed-Fee Contract
- c. Cost-Plus-Incentive-Fee Contract \(Incentive Based on Cost\)
- d. Cost-Plus-Incentive-Fee Contract \(Incentive Based on Performance\)
- e. Cost-Sharing Contract
- f. Cost-Without-Fee Contract.

Cost-Without-Fee Contract

A contract under which the contractor is reimbursed for costs with no provision for a fee.

Customer

A party that has contracted with an entity to obtain goods or services that are an output of the entity's ordinary activities in exchange for consideration.

Firm Fixed-Price Contract

A contract in which the price is not subject to any adjustment by reason of the cost experience of the contractor or his performance under the contract.

Fixed-Price Contract Providing for Firm Target Cost Incentives

A contract that provides at the outset for a firm target cost, a firm target profit, a price ceiling (but not a profit ceiling or floor), and a formula (based on the relationship that final negotiated total cost bears to total target cost) for establishing final profit and price.

Fixed-Price Contract Providing for Performance Incentives

A contract that incorporates an incentive to the contractor to surpass stated performance targets by providing for increases in the profit to the extent that such targets are surpassed and for decreases to the extent that such targets are not met.

Fixed-Price Contract Providing for Prospective Periodic Redetermination of Price

A contract that provides a firm fixed-price for an initial number of unit deliveries or for an initial period of performance and for prospective price redeterminations either upward or downward at stated intervals during the remaining period of performance under the contract.

Fixed-Price Contract Providing for Retroactive Redetermination of Price

A contract that provides for a ceiling price and retroactive price redetermination (within the ceiling price) after the completion of the contract, based on costs incurred, with consideration being given to management ingenuity and effectiveness during performance.

Fixed-Price Contract Providing for Successive Target Cost Incentives

A contract that provides at the outset for an initial target cost, an initial target profit, a price ceiling, a formula for subsequently fixing the firm target profit (within a ceiling and a floor established along with the formula, at the outset), and a production point at which the formula will be applied.

Fixed-Price Level-of-Effort Term Contract

A contract that usually calls for investigation or study in a specific research and development area. It obligates the contractor to devote a specified level of effort over a stated period of time for a fixed dollar amount.

Fixed-Price Contract with Economic Price Adjustment

A contract that provides for upward or downward revision of contract price upon the occurrence of specifically defined contingencies, such as increases or decreases in material prices or labor wage rates.

Fixed-Price Contracts

A fixed-price or lump-sum contract is a contract in which the price is not usually subject to adjustment because of costs incurred by the contractor. See also the following common variations of fixed-price contracts:

- a. Firm Fixed-Price Contract
- b. Fixed-Price Contract with Economic Price Adjustment

Performance Obligation

A promise in a contract with a customer to transfer to the customer either:

- a. A good or service (or a bundle of goods or services) that is distinct
- b. A series of distinct goods or services that are substantially the same and that have the same pattern of transfer to the customer.

Revenue

Inflows or other enhancements of assets of an entity or settlements of its liabilities (or a combination of both) from delivering or producing goods, rendering services, or other activities that constitute the entity's ongoing major or central operations.

Time-and-Material Contracts

Contracts that generally provide for payments to the contractor on the basis of direct labor hours at fixed hourly rates (that cover the cost of direct labor and indirect expenses and profit) and cost of materials or other specified costs. Common variations of time and material contracts areas follows:

- a. Time at marked-up rate
- b. Time at marked-up rate, material at cost
- c. Time and material at marked-up rates
- d. Guaranteed maximum cost—labor only or labor and material.

Unit-Price Contracts

Contracts under which the contractor is paid a specified amount for every unit of work performed. A unit-price contract is essentially a fixed-price contract with the only variable being units of work performed. Variations in unit-price contracts include the same type of variations as fixed-price contracts. A unit-price contract is normally awarded on the basis of a total price that is the sum of the product of the specified units and unit prices. The method of determining total contract price may give rise to unbalanced unit prices because units to be delivered early in the contract may be assigned higher unit prices than those to be delivered as the work under the contract progresses.

25 Recognition

i General Note: The Recognition Section provides guidance on the required criteria, timing, and location (within the financial statements) for recording a particular item in the financial statements. Disclosure is not recognition.

i General Note on Revenue Recognition—Construction-Type and Production-Type Contracts: Upon the effective date of Accounting Standards Update 2014-09, the title of this Subtopic will change to Revenue Recognition—Provision for Losses on Construction-Type and Production-Type Contracts.

i General Note for Fair Value Option: Some of the items subject to the guidance in this Subtopic may qualify for application of the Fair Value Option Subsections of Subtopic 825-10. Those Subsections (see paragraph 825-10-05-5) address circumstances in which entities may choose, at specified election dates, to measure eligible items at fair value (the fair value option). See Section 825-10-15 for guidance on the scope of the Fair Value Option Subsections of the Financial Instruments Topic.

> Provisions for Losses on Contracts

- 605-35-25-45 For a contract on which a loss is anticipated, an entity shall recognize the entire anticipated loss as soon as the loss becomes evident.
- 605-35-25-46 When the current estimates of the amount of consideration that an entity expects to receive in exchange for transferring promised goods or services to the customer, determined in accordance with Topic 606, and contract cost indicate a loss, a provision for the entire loss on the contract shall be made. Provisions for losses shall be made in the period in which they become evident.
- 605-35-25-46A For the purpose of determining the amount that an entity expects to receive in accordance with paragraph 605-35-25-46, the entity shall use the principles for determining the transaction price in paragraphs 606-10-32-2 through 32-27 (except for the guidance in paragraphs 606-10-32-11 through 32-13 on constraining estimates of variable consideration) and allocating the transaction price in paragraphs 606-10-32-28 through 32-41. In addition, the entity shall adjust that amount to reflect the effects of the customer's credit risk.
- 605-35-25-47 If a group of contracts are combined based on the guidance in paragraph 606-10-25-9, they shall be treated as a unit in determining the necessity for a provision for a loss. If contracts are not combined, the loss is determined at the contract level (see paragraph 605-35-25-45). As an accounting policy election, performance obligations identified in accordance with paragraphs 606-10-25-14 through 25-22 may be considered separately in determining the need for a provision for a loss. That is, an entity can elect to determine provisions for losses at either the contract level (including contracts that are combined in accordance with the guidance in paragraph 606-10-25-9) or the performance obligation level. An entity shall apply this accounting policy election in the same manner for similar types of contracts.

- 605-35-25-48 Losses on cost-type contracts may arise if, for example, a contract provides for guaranteed maximum reimbursable costs or target penalties. In recognizing losses for accounting purposes, the contractor's normal cost accounting methods shall be used in determining the total cost overrun on the contract, and losses shall include provisions for performance penalties.
- 605-35-25-49 The costs used in arriving at the estimated loss on a contract shall include all costs of the type allocable to contracts under paragraphs 340-40-25-5 through 25-8. Other factors that should be considered in arriving at the projected loss on a contract include all of the following:
- a. Variable consideration, (for example, target penalties and rewards and potential price redeterminations)
 - b. Nonreimbursable costs on cost-plus contracts
 - c. Change orders that meet the guidance to be accounted for as contract modifications in accordance with Topic 606 on revenue from contracts with customers, specifically paragraphs 606-10-25-10 through 25-13.

General

> Provisions for Anticipated Losses on Contracts

- 605-35-45-1 The provision for loss arises because estimated cost for the contract exceeds estimated revenue. Consequently, the provision for loss shall be accounted for in the income statement as an additional contract cost rather than as a reduction of contract revenue, which is a function of contract price, not cost. Unless the provision is material in amount or unusual or infrequent in nature, the provision shall be included in contract cost and shall not be shown separately in the income statement. If it is shown separately, it shall be shown as a component of the cost included in the computation of gross profit.
- 605-35-45-2 Provisions for losses on contracts shall be shown separately as liabilities on the balance sheet, if significant, except in circumstances in which related costs are accumulated on the balance sheet, in which case the provisions may be deducted from the related accumulated costs. In a classified balance sheet, a provision shown as a liability shall be shown as a current liability.
